Hello Again Everybody

We had our first Demonstration in a long, long time at the Koi Festival which was at the Equestrian Centre, Horsley Park. Everyone that went said they had a good and profitable time and our Charity had a good day as well.

Next will be the Stitches and Craft Show which will be held in the Dome at the Sydney Showground, Homebush. This time it will be held over five days plus the setup day which will make it a very long stint but we all have an enjoyable time plus our Charity always does very well.

The inflow of new members is still occurring and is swelling the Club ranks considerably.

Our Bunnings Barbecue turned out very well as the position has been changed back to the store entrance so a greater number of people bought sausage sandwiches and drinks as the walk was greatly reduced.

The next Demonstration on the list is at Linnwood House, Guildford on Sunday 11th July, 2021, where we haven't been for ages, and it should be another good day.

JUST KEEP TURNING

DO IT YOURSELF WOODEN TEALIGHT HOLDERS

1. Start off by removing the metal hooks from your wooden curtain rings. Usually, these can simply be screwed out. You won't be needing the hooks for this project. I've stored mine in a little bag in my tool box – who knows when they may come in handy!

2. Lay a curtain ring flat onto your work surface. Apply a small amount of Gorilla Wood Glue directly to one side of the curtain ring. The glue is really strong, so you won't need loads! Just aim for a thin layer all the way around the ring, trying to apply it to the top of the curve (this will maximise contact with the next curtain ring).

3. Carefully position another curtain ring on top of the glued one, ensuring they line up perfectly. Make sure to position the little drill holes (from the hooks you removed in step one) together. These holes can then be positioned at the back of the finished tealight holder, out of view.

4. Use a clamp, a bulldog clip or an elastic band to firmly hold the two curtain rings together. Wipe away any excess glue that might ooze out of the joint sides, then leave this to dry for 20-30 minutes.

5. Repeat this process by adding more curtain ring holders. Keep going until you are happy with the height of your DIY wooden tea light holder. I used a variety of natural wooden rings, and some painted white ones. I love that contrast!

6. Once the DIY wooden tealight holders are completely set, insert a tealight into them. The fit should be quite snug, so you'll need to apply a bit of pressure to get them securely in place.

Of course, please be careful when using your DIY wooden tea light holders. Never leave a burning candle unattended! And keep an eye on it to make sure the flame isn't getting too close to the wood.

I love the visual effect of making these wooden tea light holders in different heights. They'd look great as a table centerpiece too, don't you think? And they're really quick to make – so you can easily make some before the dark evenings are over! – Mike.

Only in growth, reform and change,

Paradoxically enough,

Is true security to be found.

A MEMBERS' PROFILE

Tell Me About Yourself?

My name is Shane Catford and I'm 48 years of age. I've been married to my wife Linda for 27 years and have two children. My daughter, Caitlin, is 21 and teachers dancing as well as being a Cheerleader for Manly Rugby League Football Club. My Son Cody is 14 and still at school but is also a junior club member.

I am a Senior Correctional Officer and have been working with the Department Of Corrective Services for the past 21 Years. I work at the Compulsory Drug Treatment Correctional Centre at Parklea. My work mainly deals with helping to rehabilitate drug addicted inmates.

Why are you interested in this hobby?

I have three main Hobbies, they are wood working, Paintball and fishing (which is my number one love). I also love making items of interest and turning wood into different items. Watching things take shape on the lathe, or finishing off a nice bowl or a pen is a fascinating pastime. The biggest attraction for me, with this club, is spending time with my Father and now my Son. Neither of them like fishing that much so doing this with them helps me create good family memories that hopefully, my Dad and Son will look on fondly, like I do now.

What would you say are your greatest strengths?

I guess I would have to say my ability to have a thick skin, not to take things personally. In my job its pretty much a must. I am about family, loyalty and a strong work ethic (which I believe I got from my Father).

Who do you look up to, and respect the most ?

That would have to be my Father. He has taught me a lot and still continues to help me. Watching him work hard growing up gave me my strong work ethic, my love for my family and respect for my Elders. There are a couple of members from the club I look up to a bit as well but I won't mention any names as I don't want to give them a big head.

Lastly, do you know any interesting or fun facts?

The Inmates refer to Prison Officers as Screws, they think it's a derogatory term, but originally it started back in the convict days as the hand cuffs used to be screwed closed, hence the term "screws".

The more I get to know people, the more I realise why Noah only let animals on the Ark

A storage tray is a useful addition to any stationary tool. After adding this one to my table saw, I don't know how I ever did without it. I made the tray about 3" deep— just deep enough to store the essentials lower than the surface of my saw, but shallow enough to keep items from getting buried. As a bonus, I found all the parts I needed to build it in my scrap bin.

I bolted the tray to the saw using the factory-drilled holes for adding extension tables. The tray's top edge is about 1/8" below the level of the saw, so it doesn't interfere with the fence.

— Dana Atwood

THE PERFECT EDGE

Woodworking begins with sharpening. There really isn't any way around the subject if you want to take the craft seriously. Too often, many of us limp around using dull chisels and plane blades because sharpening feels like a tall task. But if you take just a moment, and learn the principals of sharpening, you'll be delighted to find out that it's neither difficult or mysterious. Anyone can learn to properly sharpen their equipment.

"A properly sharpened edge eliminates one important variable when you're learning a new woodworking procedure. To flatten a board with hand planes is a task that incorporates a number of skills, tricks and metrics. If you haven't done it, it's not as easy as it seems, but there's plenty of help, including many excellent instructional media. Before you can begin to flatten a board, you must be confident that your plane is set up to function properly. It is not an exaggeration to say that all woodcutting operations start at the sharpening station and you cannot be sure of a plane's performance unless its blade is flat and sharp."

Hello fellow Wood Club Members,

As some of you may be aware, I do a lot of night shifts in my line of work and I get to spend a little time searching the net, so I thought I would search some interesting things or articles that I feel may appeal to some of you. I like using Social Media and through it I came across The Blind Woodsman, John Furniss is his name. John is blind from a self inflicted gun shot at the age of 16. He survived his suicide attempt and turned to wood turning. He has a YouTube channel, or you can check out his website, which is https://www.furnissstudios.com/theblindwoodsman. Some of the items he makes are incredible, so if you are having a day in front of the computer I recommend that you check him out.

Under-Shelf Storage for Rolls of Tape

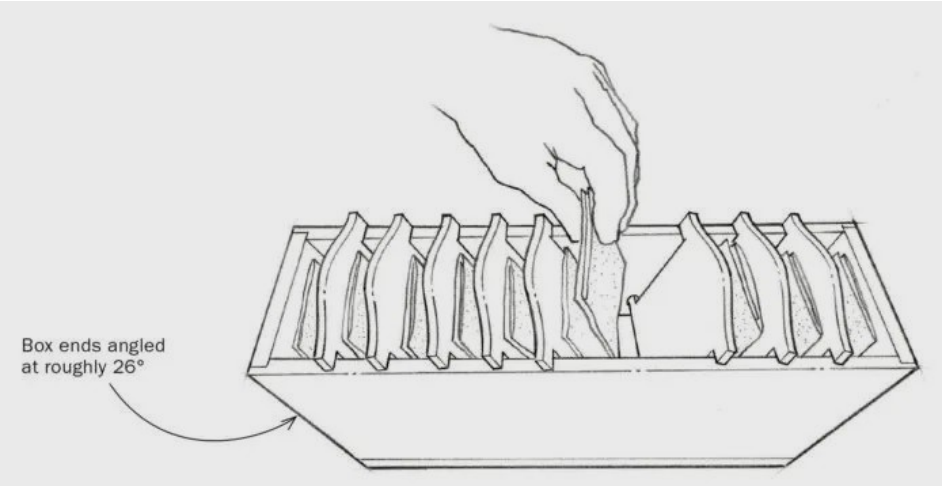

Three pieces of pipe and a T-fitting are all you need to corral your tape collection.

One of the biggest problems with rolls of tape is that they roll around and often end up in out-of-the-way places. Here's a solution that keeps tape rolls close at hand, using often-wasted space under shelves or workbenches. Just attach three short lengths of pipe to a T-fitting, then screw the assembly to the shelf with a flange. You can use either PVC or iron fittings; 1⁄2 in. dia. is sufficient.

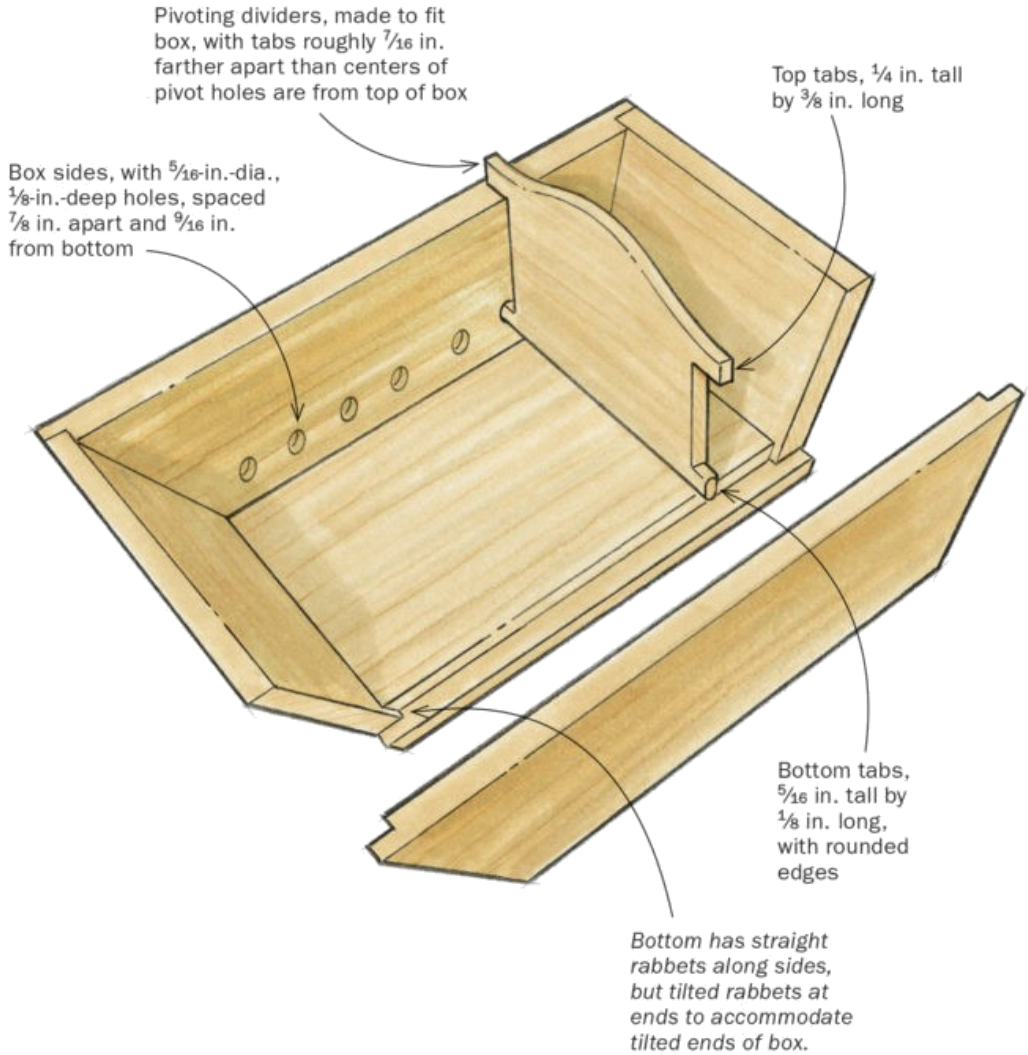

Box Keeps Sandpaper Organized and at Your Fingertips

The secret is in the pivoting dividers, which allow easy access.

How often do you hunt through a drawer or box of sandpaper looking for a specific grit? This small tray will keep up to nine grits of folded sandpaper organized and accessible. I sized the tray and dividers for quarter-sheets of sandpaper (torn width-wise and folded in three) but you can size the box for sanding disks or other paper sizes.

The important part is the pivoting dividers, which are spaced 7/8 in. apart but open up to 3-1/2 in. for easy access. The sloped ends of the box are the other key. The only critical dimension for good pivoting action is that the tabs are roughly 7/16 in. farther apart than the centers of the pivot holes are from the top of the box. Also, note that the tabs at the bottom of the dividers have to be inserted in their pivot holes when you are gluing up the box.

SUPER GLUED

After making a small repair with super glue, I put the tube in my pocket and forgot about it. Later, when I saw the tube's cap sitting on my workbench, I instinctively reached into my pocket— and discovered that my pants were securely glued to my thigh. I headed to the bathroom, and grabbed a razor blade to free myself. Hearing the commotion, my wife came to help. But when she saw my predicament, she just burst out laughing. Fortunately, with delicate slicing, I was able to complete the task. It would have been much worse if something else had gotten glued. –Jim McMichael

Introducing the new PPP replacement product. Just the name is being changed, the contents are the same as before. Alan, who supplied us with several products to assist with finishing our projects, called this PPP. It is a mixture of Bees Wax, Paraffin Wax, DE and Gum Turpentine. Its purpose is to seal and prepare the object for the final polish medium. Once you have sanded and sealed and de-nibbed the fine fibers, PPP is then applied to prepare the surface for the final finish. I have re-named it, Big Als' Ozzie Grit, because in some ways it is similar to Yorkshire Grit and other similar products. This is available as a 250gr jar in the Club's shop and considering the job it does is great value.

Second of the replacement products is called Big Als' Sanding Sealer. A mixture of Shellac and thinners to seal your project after you have sanded it to your likening.

Available in a 250ml plastic bottle with a resealable cap., Big Als' Sanding Sealer is not intended to add a stain to your project but rather its job is to seal the pores of the wood. An essential product in most woodturners kits as it's essential to seal the wood before applying any finish.

Our third product is Big Als' Friction Polish. Currently available in a 200ml bottle this will be replaced by a 250ml size in due time. Composed of a mix of Shellac, Denatured Alcohol, Shines Shellac Hardener and several waxes it is a well tested product that imparts an exceptional gloss finish that is long lasting and hard wearing.

Apply a small amount of polish to the piece using a cloth or paper towel, while it is on the lathe, but with the lathe turned off. Put some more polish on the same piece of cloth or paper towel and turn on the lathe at a fairly high speed. Use the cloth or paper towel to even out the polish on the work. Then apply pressure to the piece using the cloth or paper towel. Apply several layers as this deepens the effect of the finish.

What has happened to our Country?

What an interesting question? How does one begin to answer such a broad-brush question? If you put such a question at the centre of a circle it can be approached from each of the three hundred and sixty degrees of that circle. This got me thinking which raised the next question. What is "it" that has happened to our country? This then raises the next question. Why has "it" happened to our country.

Rightly or wrongly. I came to the conclusion that all the 360 potentially different approaches could be condensed into one "it." That "it" being that society has been consumed by (a) a loss of respect, (b) lack of empathy and (c) greed.

As you read this remember that your club is a microcosm of society and much of what is written hereunder applies to your club and its members.

Loss of respect:

Every day there are examples of loss of respect, be they respect in terms of:

Self-respect: lack of pride in appearance, behaviour, personal health and welfare; self-harm through drug use, general attitude and behaviour, etc.

Respect for property: vandalism, graffiti, and theft; lack of care and maintenance and abusive use of the property of other persons or organisations, etc.

Respect for others: Bullying, abuse, bad language, physical assault, sexual assault, verbal assault; noncompliance with road rules and failure to comply with health regulations, etc; non-recognition of another's opinion - inability to debate – denigrate the person rather than have a civil discussion on the issue in question; deliberate public humiliation of an individual; failure to accept accountability and admit your error.

Respect for history: A failure to recognise that the fact that something actually happened is history. History is not how you want to record what happened, in a way that suits your views or your cause. No matter how many ways or how many times you attempt to record or not record something does not change history it only distorts the record.

Respect for truth and honesty: fraud, scams; the maligning and manipulating of both people and fact; false promotion or your own skills and ability; denigration or someone who has a lesser ability than yourself.

Lack of empathy:

Every day there are demonstrations of lack of empathy. This includes: Failure to help someone in trouble, failure to enquire about someone's welfare, failure to make a contribution, failure to volunteer, failure to donate either in cash or kind.

Greed:

Greed is all consuming. Greed manifests itself in many ways. Greed is taking more than your allocated and/or fair share; taking something that is not yours, taking something simply to prevent someone else having it.

Greed is hogging the limelight so that due credit is not given to those who are most deserving. Greed is accepting the benefit of the efforts of others without making a contribution.

Think about all the things that used to be free and now attract a fee or are no longer available. As the population and density of living increases more of these things should be available and should still be free. As an example, consider the decline in local recreational areas where children could gather and happily engage in healthy, stimulating activities. Where are the tennis courts, walls for handball, tracks for billycart races, hopscotch areas, etc?

Question: Is the decline in these activities because of the advances in technology or have children readily adopted technology because these facilities are no longer available?

Answer: Probably a bit of both.

However, without doubt lack of respect and greed on the part of property developers, councils and governments who have facilitated a decrease in the recreational area per head of population rather than maintaining the ratio as the population increases is a significant factor.

The legal profession and the insurance companies have also made a negative contribution because both always look to find fault in the other party so that the claim is either denied or someone has to pay. Remember in every court case involving these organisations somewhere along the line an insurance company and a lawyer always win.

Library Update

Please note DVD's have been moved from the cupboard outside the store into the library.

Please ensure any magazines which belong to the club are returned.

AN IMPORTANT NOTE TO ALL

The plastic bins that are provided for sawdust are not to be used for general rubbish. Quite often items are found in these bins that should have been placed in the garbage bins that are also provided. Please do the right thing and don't be a lazy slob who chooses to make work for others. The sawdust is taken away to be used on gardens and if it has general rubbish mixed in with it we will lose this method of disposal and all members will be required to take the sawdust they generate with them when they leave the premises to dispose of as they wish.

Is it ignorance or apathy that's destroying the world today?
I don't know and I don't really care.

Hi All…..Back in stock in our shop is Friction Polish, PPP, and Sanding Sealer. Also they are re-branded…firstly, the friction polish is now called Big Als' Friction Polish, next is Big Als' Ozzie Grit which was previously called PPP and lastly, the sanding sealer is called, you guessed it, Big Als' Sanding Sealer. All are quality products which we have come to know and trust over the years. A cutting board polish is also in the works for those of you that like to finish your cutting boards with this product.

Members often ask whether the Club is open on Saturdays and yes, it is. The second Saturday is traditionally Ladies Day and Anna Dawes is the convenor on the day. The third Saturday is open to all to attend and yours truly is the convenor. Hours of operation are 8.30am to 4.00pm on both days and the fee is $5.

The Koi Society held its first show for awhile several weeks ago. Some of our members attended and they did well, selling various items. Our Charity account increased because of their sales and hopefully there will be a more in-depth report in the next issue.

Not long now until our next AGM. It will be held at the Club, Covid permitting. See elsewhere in this newsletter for the notice and nomination forms..

Quite a few new members to get to know and this should benefit the Club in may ways.

Until next issue….Les Coombes...Editor
